Admittedly it was a one-sided fight, yet German deaths were 10,572. There were 30,322 wounded, of whom some will be added to the death list. There were 3,404 missing. All these figures are the Germans' own.

While there can be no exact basis of comparison, it is interesting to note that the German deaths totaled one-fifth of all American deaths in the World War. When one considers that our engagements abroad included the tremendous Battle of ence. #### The Parent Problem By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THINK ABOUT YOUR PROBLEMS Undoubtedly you believe, as I do, that giving serious thought to our family problems does enable us to solve many of these problems and prevent certain others from arising. It is possible for you and me to stand off, in our imagination, and look at ourselves as if we were another person doing the observing. Sometimes we can do this better if we can have the help of someone well versed in child guidance and family relationships.

Now and then, during the years I have taught classes of parents at Cleveland College, Western Reserve University, a parent would report, after several weeks of discussion in class, that some of the serious problems she thought she had, appeared to be solving themselves. When asked what she did to effect the solution, she would often reply that she did nothing at all. Later, some would add, "Maybe I have changed myself; I do know that have learned to look at my problems more calmly and objectively."

We parents do best when we sit with the children absent, and try holding blame of each other, and

Most of our problems are of the kind that continue over a long persee before they arise, even finding ways to prevent them or lessen their seriousness by planning ahead of

Aviation Is Not Yet War Factor Has Figured Little On West Front American Experts Give Out Reason

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.-Avia tion hasn't figured as much thus far in western European warfare as generally was expected. In the eastern area, to be sure, German planes have bombed Warsaw and other Polish cities into ruins, but London, Paris and Berlin haven't been raided from the heavens as was anticipated. They've been scared half to death, as their nightly blackouts have proved. However, nothing much has happened.

In brief, what Mr. Hoover proposes is this Repeal the embargo, as decash-and-carry provisions and the other features of the Pittman bill, BUT limit the sale of arms to defensive weapons and prohibit the sale of offensive weapons. The suggestion that it is not possible to distinguish between the two is sidestepping and not sound.

> THE Hoover idea would permit us fillery and ammunition, pursuit and observation planes, but we could not sell bombing planes, bombs, poison gas or submarines. In other words, we could sell any sort of arm and ammunition that could be used in defensive warfare, but nothing the primary use of which is against civlian populations. Mr. Hoover points out that while the practical effect of this would be to aid the British and French it would relieve us of the charge of participating in "mass murder." Also it would mean that no weapon made by American manufacturers would be used against defenseless women and children. It would give the British and French nearly everything they could want from us and at the same time strenimize the charge that we had actively entered the war by the back door in behalf of our former allies. If there is a sound objection to this

IT would seem to put the United States in an unassailable position. It would seem a position in keeping with the dignity of the nation and the sentiment of the people. It would seem to be something upon which those who favor embargo repeal and those who oppose it might bill itself that our primary purpose is peace; that we will neither en-

THIS disposition to dismiss anything that comes from Mr. Hoover without regard to its merit is, to some extent, journalistic as well as political. It is about time for it to wear out. Partly it is a reflection of Mr. Roosevelt's personal feeling, which is due to two causes-firstconsciousness that in the days between his election in 1932 and his inauguration he treated Mr. Hoover very shabbily indeed; second, because Mr. Hoover's indictment of the New Deal policies has been more devastating and consistent and thor-

"Macbeth" Pleases Appreciative Crowd

Hendrickson-Bruce Players Present Shakesperean Drama Friday Night

Before an appreciative audience in the senior high school auditorium Friday night the James Hendrickson-Clair Bruce players presented "Macbeth", the old Scotch tragedy enacted in Glamis Castle in the Shakespeare's treatment of Macbeth is not exactly like the historian's account. The historian has it that Macbeth killed King Dunwithal was a good king until 1057 when he was in turn killed by Duncan's son. Shakespeare has made Macbeth a usurper without many of the qualities attributed to him by the historian.

The Hendrickson-Bruce fill a peculiar niche in the world of drama today. Forsaking the legitimate theatres they prefer to Cochran, Fern street; Mrs. Hattie appear before high school and college audiences.
